Action: See below

1. The case officer responsible for liaison with [REDACTED] was recently approached by that organization's senior analyst on Chinese Communist developments with a request for information on the 1st through the 8th Ministries of Machine Building. The analyst is interested in the identity of the principle officers, the identity of the major plants under each ministry -- including types of product and volume of production.

2. The [REDACTED] Representative is aware of this could prove to be a monumental project. If more convenient to [REDACTED] it is suggested that the response be limited to forwarding copies of whatever documents may now be readily available, keeping in mind that such materials should be classified not higher than SECRET. Should xerox or thermofax copies of the documents prove the most convenient method of response, that will be acceptable. If security classification leaves gaps, there will be no embarrassment to the station. There is no deadline on this request.

3. It would be appreciated if some response could be made to this request, however, since the [REDACTED] analyst in question is one of the more promising career employees of his organization and because of his record of close cooperation with the case officer.
